Jessica Roark—Assistant Director
Erica Burns—Honors Academic Counselor
Ebonie Hill-Williamson—Honors Academic Counselor
Cindy Lane—Honors Academic Counselor

Oklahoma State University is an active member of the National Collegiate Honors Council and the Great Plains Honors Council. The Honors College is composed of a university-wide General Honors component and specialized upper-division components at the departmental or college levels. The Honors College provides academically talented students with the opportunity to study, conduct research, and exchange ideas in an exciting and supportive academic environment. Honors sections are offered in many general education courses, and special honors seminars and interdisciplinary honors courses are also available. Honors classes are taught by outstanding faculty members and the classes are small in size to facilitate active student involvement.

Completion of the requirements for the General Honors Award leads to special designation on the student’s OSU transcript, as does completion of the requirements for the Departmental or College Honors Award in the student’s academic major. Students who earn a minimum of 39 honors credit hours and complete the Departmental or College Honors Award, with a 3.50 cumulative grade-point average at graduation, receive the Honors College Degree, including a special entry on their transcripts and special honors diplomas. Additional advantages for active participants in The Honors College (minimum of three honors credit hours per semester and nine honors credit hours for each two consecutive semesters for freshmen and sophomores and three honors credit hours per semester for juniors and seniors) include use of The Honors College study lounge in Old Central (with a computer lab), extended check-out privileges for library materials, priority enrollment for the following semester, and honors housing options in Stout and Bennett Halls (on a rooms-available basis).

Admission of new freshmen to The Honors College is based on an ACT composite score of 27 or higher (or comparable SAT score) with a high school grade-point average of 3.75 or higher. Application instructions are included in the OSU Application for Admission. Entering freshmen who fall just short of these criteria may request a petition form from The Honors College. Students other than new freshmen may be admitted to The Honors College on the basis of their cumulative grade-point averages (7-59 hours earned: 3.30; 60-93 hours earned: 3.40; 94 or more hours earned: 3.50). Transfer freshmen must have completed at least seven college credit hours (not including concurrent enrollment while in high school) to be eligible on the basis of college performance. If they do not have the required high school grade-point average and ACT score, there is a February 1 deadline for regular acceptance based on the criteria outlined above. Applications submitted after February 1 will be considered on a space-available basis.

For additional information about The Honors College, interested students should consult the Dean or Assistant Director of The Honors College, 101 Old Central or visit www.okstate.edu/honors

Oklahoma Scholar Leadership Enrichment Program

The Oklahoma Scholar-Leadership Enrichment Program (OSLEP) is a statewide academic program designed to develop scholarship and leadership abilities of outstanding students. Students study in intensive, multi-day seminars with a distinguished scholar and are selected from Oklahoma’s 21 four-year colleges and universities. OSU’s sophomore, junior and senior students with a 3.00 GPA are eligible to apply. OSLEP seminars are taken for 1-3 hours of credit. The only cost to students is the tuition - the program provides books and room and board during the seminar. The seminars are graded on a satisfactory/unsatisfactory basis and are transferred to OSU as Pass/Fail. Application should be made as early in the academic year as possible. Further information and application materials may be obtained from OSU’s OSLEP coordinator, Dr. Keith Garbutt, The Honors College, 101 Old Central.

Henry Bellmon Office of Scholar Development and Undergraduate Research

Jessica Roark—Interim Director
Cathy Lopez—Administrative Assistant
Tim O’Neil—Program Coordinator and Editor-in-Chief, Oklahoma Journal of Undergraduate Research

OSU has long been a national leader and innovator in scholar development and, more recently, undergraduate research. For over 25 years, this office has prepared students for the future, whether in competition for prestigious national/international fellowships, admission to top graduate schools, securing highly competitive jobs, or attaining the skills required to grow as a leader. We offer diverse programs, targeted to a wide range of majors, year classifications, and interests in order to elevate a large number of students’ undergraduate experience. This office enhances undergraduate opportunity, encourages student-faculty mentoring, and promotes retention through four primary areas:

1. Scholarship/Fellowship Success
Outstanding students can compete for a wide range of prestigious national and international scholarships as juniors and seniors at OSU, such as the Rhodes, Marshall, Truman, Goldwater, Udall, and others. In addition, there is a host of lesser-known but still valuable opportunities that require students to prepare competitive applications. This office monitors student progress, provides important information, supplies support, and plans courses and activities that can lead to success in these areas. Interested students can contact the office to inquire about opportunities and strategies. Often faculty will nominate candidates who have been performing at a high level academically and displaying other qualities through leadership and community service. Early identification of freshmen and sophomores is especially important in order for the student to gain the most from these programs.

2. Undergraduate Research
Additionally, as an incentive for the kinds of students who are considered OSU’s best and brightest, the Lew Wentz Foundation, Robberson Trust, and generous donors provide substantial private funding to OSU for several scholarship programs that are managed in this office. The programs include:
- Wentz Research Grant - an opportunity for undergraduates to plan and perform high-level research under the direction of a faculty mentor ($4,500 each for academic year or $750 each for a single semester);
- Wentz Leadership Award - traditional scholarships based on academic excellence and well-rounded campus activities ($2,750 each);
- Wentz Non-Traditional and Transitional Student Text Book Award - full-time or part-time (up to $1,500).

Freshman Research Scholars Program - whereby top entering students can begin their careers with a scholarship for an orientation to research ($1,000 each)

Oklahoma Journal of Undergraduate Research - a new opportunity for students to share their academic accomplishments, whereby articles by students are reviewed by a faculty editorial board for selective digital publication.

The OSU Undergraduate Research Network - an online resource that allows faculty to invite undergraduate collaborators and affords students the opportunity to identify research experiences that fit their interests and abilities for valuable interactions over long and short-term projects.

Undergraduate Research Scholar Transcript Designation - Thanks to opportunities in undergraduate research at OSU, those receiving degrees can qualify for ‘undergraduate research scholar designation’ on the transcript, a valuable achievement. To be considered, the student must:
- a. For a minimum of two semesters, be engaged in and contribute substantively to research or creative inquiry with a faculty mentor and/or faculty-led team;
- b. Present his or her research or creativity project at a state, regional, or national conference or juried artistic venues such as art exhibitions, concerts, or festivals;
- c. Publish his or her work or a manuscript related to the creativity product in a refereed research or professional journal (or have it accepted for publication). Applicants should apply through the Henry Bellmon Office of Scholar Development and Undergraduate Research at least six weeks before the end of their studies at OSU, and a committee appointed by the Faculty Council will examine the materials and determine whether or not the candidate will be approved and recognized.

3. International Experience
This office produces a number of international programs for undergraduate students called “OSU Scholar Abroad.” The flagship program, a two-week course at the University of Cambridge in the UK has been held for over ten years each July. In addition, annual programs to diverse geographic locations covering a range of academic topics are held throughout the year. Admission to programs are competitive and partial scholarships are awarded to participants.

4. Individual and Institutional Recognition
This office strives to promote scholarship and undergraduate research at the highest level at OSU through the formal recognition of both individual students and faculty, as well as through the promotion of the University as a whole. Visit the Halligan Hall of Scholars in the Student Union atrium for more information. For further information on all programs, please contact the office at 405.744.7313 or visit www.okstate.edu/scholars.
